Greetings Relatives,

On June 15, the Supreme Court upheld the circuit court’s conclusion that Congress’ power to legislate Indian Affairs is well-established and broad; therefore, the ICWA (Indian Child Welfare Act) is consistent with Congress’ power under Article 1 of the Constitution. The ICWA was enacted over 45 years ago in attempts to remedy decades of past government abuse towards native people and children. This is a major victory for our Tribe and all other tribal nations. As we celebrate this historic victory for tribal sovereignty, we will continue to ensure its reaffirmation within all court systems.

The search for a hidden cemetery near the former Genoa Indian Boarding School continues. Genoa was part of a national system of more than 400 Native American boarding schools that attempted to assimilate our indigenous youth by separating them from their families and cutting them off from their culture. Genoa is about 100 miles from Omaha, Nebraska. The school opened in 1884 and was home to nearly 600 students from over 40 tribes across the country. Records indicate at least 86 students died at the school. The bodies of some of those children were returned to their homes but many others never made it back. It is believed that several of these children were buried on the school grounds. Members of the Nebraska Intertribal Coalition and myself have toured the grounds and we will collectively keep searching for answers alongside the many other tribal nations impacted by this horrific stain in American history. The Nebraska Commission on Indian Affairs will be hosting a meeting with all the tribal nations to talk about the next steps in this effort.

Additional highlights from the last couple of months:

• D.C. fly-in to meet with Nebraska, Iowa, and other congressional representatives
• Strategic planning sessions with tribal council and executive staff
• DHHS federal consultation meetings in Kansas City
• Pre-construction meetings for Phase II of the casino
• Employee Appreciation Event
• Region 7 Tribal Climate, Emergencies, and Health Symposium
• Workforce meetings
• Nebraska Intertribal Coalition meetings
• Genoa visits and monitoring
• Agricultural Resource Management Plan meetings
• Construction Job Fairs held in all office locations
• Back-to-school events and summer events

In closing, I look forward to seeing many of you at our 29th Annual Powwow coming up on August 11th, 12th, and 13th in Niobrara, Nebraska. For those traveling, I wish you safe travels to the homelands. Wi Btha Ha (Thank you) for allowing me to share with you. Take care.

District 3 summer gathering makes a splash!
Virtual art camp a success with young artists

On Thursday, July 13 at 9 am the Osni Ponka Youth Council hosted a virtual art camp for our youth ages 5-12. Art teacher Amy Adams instructed the kiddos through creating a zen giraffe artwork, which was both creative and fun!

We had a total of 20 kids participate in the art camp nationwide.

This was the second year of the art camp and once registration went live, it was full in 45 minutes because of the number of our kiddos that love art!

Some of the art supplies were mailed to the participants, some were sent through transportation, and others were picked up at the local Ralston Administration office with the assistance of Candy Schott.

Due to the popularity of this summer camp, the Osni Ponka Youth Council is considering doing this camp, and more like it, this next summer to engage our youth.

Invisible injuries...has your head been hurt?

Julie Flynn
Elder Victim Case Manager

Traumatic brain injury, long linked to military service and sports, has another more insidious source: domestic violence, also known as intimate partner violence.

In fact, the number of people who sustain traumatic brain injuries during domestic violence episodes may outnumber the combined incidences of athletes and military.

In the United States, an estimated one in four women and one in ten men will experience some form of domestic violence in their lifetimes. It can happen to anyone, regardless of race, ethnicity, socioeconomic status, gender identity, sexual orientation, ability, or age. Although many studies of domestic violence center around women in heterosexual relationships, due to its higher prevalence in that group, but men, non-binary individuals, and queer people may also be affected by domestic violence. Even mild cases of traumatic brain injury, like a concussion, can significantly have long-lasting impairments.

Your brain could have been hurt if your partner ever:

- Choked or strangled you or ever made it hard for you to breathe.
- Hit or punched you in the face, head or neck.
- Made you fall and knock your head or shook you really hard.

Regardless of severity, a brain injury in the context of domestic violence has been linked to poor health outcomes for both individuals and future generations.

Even a single incident can result in long-term cognitive damage. Even if you have no marks – most don’t…even if you don’t pass out…and you feel it’s no big deal

IT IS!!! YOU ARE NOT ALONE

What might I notice if my brain was hurt?

- Feel funny or off
- Don’t remember what happened
- Saw spots
- Felt dizzy or off balanced.
- Have headaches, pain in your face, neck or bruising or swelling.
- Feel agitated or restless
- Sleeping too much or too little.

These symptoms might get better with time, but may not.

What should I do if my head was hurt? Get medical care if you have:

- A headache that doesn’t go away or gets worse
- One pupil(eye) that is larger than the other
- Trouble remembering what happened
- Extreme drowsiness
- Slurred speech, numbness or decreased coordination
- Repeated vomiting or nausea
- Confusion, restless or agitation
- Loss of bodily functions
- Loss of consciousness, passed out or were knocked out

Just know your brain can heal after a head trauma.

Early diagnoses and listening to what your doctor suggests like:

- Get good sleep
- Take breaks
- Do things in the A.M. when your brain is fresher
- Plan ahead
- Stop activities if your head feels worse
- Try to avoid your head being hurt again.
